"In order for learning to transfer from training to the work environment they must be experiential rather than academic in nature.

This allows the participants to develop ownership in the outcomes and effect the transfer themselves. MTC Equipment allows us to provide a great variety of experiences, which can be tailored to specific outcomes for each individual team. The ease of use, portability and wide range of exercise choices offered in your Equipment make it some of the best I have used. Furthermore, the excellent support and feedback from you and your staff are an added bonus to trainers in the field such as myself."

Gary Thompson
 Human Resource Development, UAW & General Motors

We remember...

MTC teambuilding activities consistently follow the MTC learning cycle:
Challenge
Experience
Review
Transfer and Apply
 encouraging use of all learnings during subsequent activities or challenges and back in the workplace
